Pabam, 8, Leukemia

Pabam's Dream Ride

For Pabam, an 8-year-old living with leukemia, nothing is more exciting than hearing the cheerful 'telolet' sound of passing buses. His biggest wish is to ride his favorite Basuri Bus with his idol driver, Om (or "Mr.") Andry. Finally, that wish finally came true! The day began with a special pick-up from his home, where Pabam joyfully met Om Andry in front of a beautifully decorated bus before heading off on an unforgettable ride. The bus was prepared exclusively for him and his family, making the journey feel even more special. Along the way, he proudly helped check passenger tickets and danced to the sound of the telolet horn that he loves so much.

Pabam's creativity came to life as he designed his dream bus, complete with colors and a special logo he named "Pabam Trans". Surrounded by his family and friends, he shared his wish to one day have his own bus company. The celebration ended with a joyful meal, laughter, and a heartfelt "Happy Wish Day" just for him, making it a memory that will inspire him for years to come.

When Pabam finally got to ride the bus he always talked about, his happiness was so pure it made us forget all the hard days —
